-- Languages - don't we need to make a much more concerted effort to overcome our language deficiencies, invest more in training, sacrifice other qualifications to bring in people with good language qualifications? the IG report on EUR makes you weep when it assesses the language proficiency and staying in touch with people in education, selling CIA, its training and

-- Collector-analyst cooperation and collaboration - both the DDO and the DDI know that there are big gaps here - steps are being made to bridge them but can't we do it faster and more completely? - I hear stations complaining about visits from green DI analysts - may indicate a need for better briefing

-- Computer information technology - Jim Taylor's memorandum provides a basis for this important discussion.

Open information - do we have our act together on this with the HUMINT Committee, the library, FBIS, data banks? - are we doing well enough impressive story of box an impressive story of box and impress an impressive story of how ne with a couple of societies	7

-- Public image - we say frequently to ourselves that public support is so important to our mission that we can no longer suffer unfair criticism, distortions and falsehoods in silence - George Lauder has done well in responding to some stories - we sent a message with the complaint to the FCC about ABC - we should exchange views on where we go from here in this respect my inclination is that we should open up more than we have, speak to the threats we see and the attacks we need to deal with more freely but within security limits - it seems to me the ice was well broken on this in the DDCI's testimony on active measures in the late 70s and again in the early 80s - I think it has worked well on technology transfer - I would be inclined to give destabilization and promotion of insurgencies the same treatment - also the economic disruptions that seem to follow the Communist model, notably in Ethiopia right now terrorism could lend itself to the same treatment - done properly this could accomplish important public education as to the vital nature of our mission and dilute or fend off the inevitable criticism - earlier in 1984, in connection with the Excellence initiative, we said we would be defending the institution more actively around the country

-- Message to the troops - the best way to reinforce and keep alive the Excellence initiative is to tackle the problems which will be discussed at our conference effectively - but perhaps this is also the time for a further follow-up report - I understand the material has been put together for this.

-- Recognition and Awards - what else can be done to recognize the special burden and contribution of our people in the field? - longer and more irregular hours than State and military - exposure to terrorist threats also experienced by other US employees abroad but perhaps ours are more directly involved and easily targeted - in this connection, we are beginning to formulate how our special benefits can be preserved - what do we need to do now to press this and what else should we be thinking of?
